

Richard Parker

RICHARD D. PARKER is Williams Professor of Law at Harvard Law School. He teaches Constitutional Law and Criminal Law as well as seminars on "Majority Rule" and "Law and Literature." His recent publications include "Here, the People Rule": A Constitutional _Populist Manifesto along with essays entitled "Taking Politics Personally" and "Power to the Voters."

